

ABSTRACT

The present invention includes methods for producing magnetic nanocrystals by using a biological molecule that has been modified to possess an amino acid oligomer that is 5 capable of specific binding to a magnetic material.